SUMMARY – Kovels on Antiques and Collectibles, November 2011 issue, is now available in print and online. Featured this month are picture and price auction reports on Anna Pottery, Indian Jewelry of the American Southwest and Medical Antiques.

CLEVELAND – November 1, 2011 – Kovels on Antiques and Collectibles November 2011 issue is now available in print and online.

A jug smothered in snakes sold for $80,500 at an Illinois auction. See pictures and prices of some of Anna Pottery's unusual and shocking output in Kovels' November newsletter. Take a look at the Kovels' sale report on Navajo and other Southwest Indian jewelry that sold for a wide range of prices at recent auctions in Cincinnati and Santa Fe., where prices for the best pieces by known artists were in the thousands. And see pictures and prices of items that were used by doctors 100 or more years ago to treat patients, from a simple mortar and pestle to a surgeon's kit, that were auctioned this fall in Ohio—all in the November issue of Kovels on Antiques and Collectibles.

Regular monthly features—the Dictionary of Marks, featuring American "Belleek," the popular illustrated Collector's Gallery with answers to readers' questions, and the Buyer's Price Guide of recent prices—are also included.

With its mixture of expert advice and reports on what's hot in the market, the newsletter has something to offer for both beginning and experienced collectors.
